Foundry may open

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A million square feet of foundry, silent since 1982, will start making noise, American Steel Foundries announced Wednesday.

American Steel will recall 35 to 45 employees, mostly in maintenance, and spend more than $1 million for four to five months of preparatory work to allow the plant's reopening when needed, Granite City Works Manager William P. Donovan said at a press conference at the Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce.

Donovan said that when the work is done, a decision to resume operation at the plant will be made based on the demand for railroad cars. The foundry cast side frames and bolsters for freight cars, and employed up to 1,750 people. The initial production staff in late 1988 or early 1989 might total 200, he said.

"Our top analysts think the demand (for freight cars) is going to continue. They are willing to invest $1 million at this time," Donovan said.

"We are not planning to reopen just on a short-term basis. We are confident, but the final decision will be based on the trends at that time."

Donovan said former employees would be the first hired if operations resume. American Steel has been negotiating with the unions, he said, and the foundry seeks some work rule changes, but Donovan declined to be more specific.

"The only single factor that could keep us from opening is a major decline in demand or, maybe, union problems working out work rule changes," Donovan said.

Donovan said current projec

GRANITE CITY — American Steel Foundries' possible reopening is being met with enthusiasm.

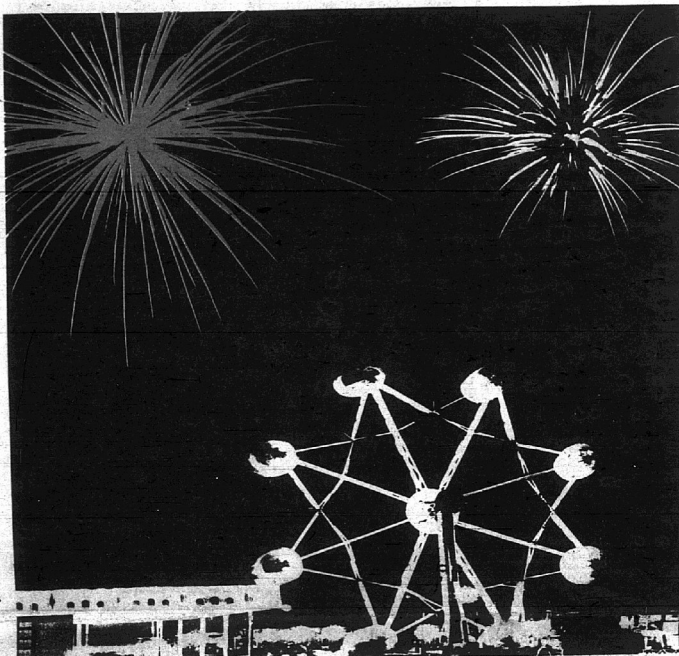

Calling the announcement Wednesday that the plant is considering reopening "one of the happiest days in our city's history," Mayor Von Dee Cruse said he is "thrilled for the whole community" because of the amount of money the plant's reopening would mean to the economy.

The company's Granite City works manager, William P. Donovan, estimates up to $30 million in salaries could be earned if the plant resumed full operation, employing up to 1,750. The city's unemployment rate for May was 10.8 percent, with 1,825 persons seeking work.

Bob Hankins, Granite City, a spectrographic chemist, said off when the company closed its plant in 1982, has worked at other jobs on and off for the past six years and was laid off again in February.

"I could use the work," he said. "There's not a great

Cruse gives engineering department responsibility to Warfield

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Most Engineering Department work must receive Street Superintendent Mac Warfield's approval, Mayor Von Dee Cruse announced Tuesday.

A memo read by Cruse to the City Council states all Engineering Department work and proposals involving the Street Department won't be done unless Warfield agrees.

"I've been looking at it all day," Warfield said Wednesday. "I'm not ready to comment on it. I guess it is what should have been going on — it's been my responsibility all along. It's my job. I'm elected to do this. No one else should be spending my budget. I've really been thinking about it. I'm just not ready to comment right now."

Cruse said he didn't give anything away. "It would be a little different if there were no elected superintendent," Cruse said. "But he's elected, it's his responsibility. It's not the department head's to supersede him. The final decision is up to the elected official. I wanted to stop the buck passing, here to there or whatever."

City engineers, aldermen and Street Department members have been feuding at council meetings for several months.

"The engineers have been drawn into the controversy — do this street, don't do that street — and it's not their responsibility to make that decision," Cruse said. "It's very, very simple. Everybody does their job."

"I'm not telling them not to work with the street superintendent. All I said was it's his responsibility, not yours."

City Engineer Roger Hadley said Cruse hadn't shown him the memo before it was issued.

"He told me 'I think I'm going to help you with this memo.'"

Hadley said the engineers' job is to make sure project engineering is correct, but most projects involve more than engineering.

It's just 'Mickey' to Jason

By Paul Guggina
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — It's being touted in Los Angeles as the most spectacular dinner show of the decade, a fundraiser that is expected to generate more than $1.5 million for AIDS victims.

But for 7-year-old Jason Robertson, it boils down to two words: "Mickey Mouse."

Jason, a hemophiliac with AIDS-related complex, utters the words with a grin as he plays with a Mickey Mouse puppet in his living room.

"I'm going to see Mickey Mouse," he says.

Jason — along with his mother, sister, and his mother's aunt — is being flown to Los Angeles this afternoon as guests of Athletes and Entertainers for Kids, which is coordinating a black-tie dinner show featuring performances by Elton John, Whoopie Goldberg, Robin Williams and others.

The family will spend six days touring the area, and Jason will get to meet his make-believe friends at Disneyland.

"It will be the first real vacation we've had since Jason was born," says Tammy Robertson, Jason's mother, as she packs six bottles of "factor," or blood additive, into a first-aid kit about the size of a typewriter case.

"I've never really been out of this area," she says. "We've never seen the ocean."

Mrs. Robertson says she expects to be something like Chicago: "like being on another planet."

"We'd never been to a really big city before, and everything there was just so different."

In L.A., the family will be driven around in a limousine.

Sewer excavations inspected in Venice

By Marva Collins
Correspondent

VENICE — Most of the City Council meeting centered on sanitary sewer line excavations near the boxcar apartment project Tuesday. Corrective action is planned.

Second Ward Alderman Silver Franklin said that near the new apartment complex there are five large holes along the sewer line in the alley between Fillmore and Jefferson avenues.

The holes have existed for three weeks and there are no barricades, he said.

Raw sewage is leaking into the excavations from the sewer pipe and the situation could be hazardous, Franklin said. He said he had notified the city's building and health inspectors.

Council members appeared to be unaware of the problem and asked whether the apartment project owner, Gerald Moss, Madison, had been granted a permit to tap onto the sewer.

After the meeting, a visit was made to the alley area by Franklin, 1st Ward Alderman Charles Collins, 4th Ward Alderman Victor Valentine, 3rd Ward Alderman John Ervin, City Clerk Wilbert Glasper and Mayor Tyrone Echols.

Echols said Street Superintendent Clarence Bradley is in charge of allowing people to connect onto sewer lines.

Echols could not explain why the holes had been there for three weeks but said the matter would be resolved with the efforts of Bradley, Health Inspector John Essington and Building Inspectors Joe Brooks and Roland Wilson.

Bush attends VP Fair, voices sorrow over downed airliner

By Deborah Reinhardt
Staff affiliate

New American citizens, their families and friends celebrated their new citizenship Monday with a barbecue at the VP Fair that featured an appearance by Vice President George Bush.

Bush, who earlier Monday attended Fourth of July festivals in Detroit and Chicago, said he could not think of a warmer place than the VP Fair.

"And I mean that in two ways," he said in reference to the warm temperature.

Bush shook hands and talked with some of the people in attendance before addressing the crowd.

Bush expressed sorrow at the 290 lives lost due to Sunday's Iran-U.S. fighting in the Persian Gulf causing a civilian aircraft to crash. But he said the captain of the Vincennes, a U.S. Navy missile cruiser, followed orders and did what he had to do. The crowd that had gathered to hear the vice president's speech applauded.

One of the people attending, Shailesh Shah, hoisted a huge American flag for Bush and the crowd to see. Shah earlier Monday became a U.S. citizen.

Another new citizen, Theresa Montgomery, originally from Poland, jubilantly joined her husband, Paul, and two-year-old daughter, Catherine, after she snapped Vice President Bush's picture.

Bush spoke to fairgoers later Monday from the Overlook Stage. He was joined by his wife, Barbara, who wore a navy blue skirt and red and white blouse. Other dignitaries were Missouri Gov. and Mrs. John Ashcroft, Ron Henges, VP Fair general chairman, and VP Fair Foundation president Charles Wallace and his wife, Sarah.

"They told me it was this big and I didn't believe them," Bush said. "They told me it was this much fun and I didn't believe them. Congratulations, St. Louis, for celebrating Independence Day in this spectacular fashion."

Bush later moved on to the Becky Thatcher vessel, from where he watched the afternoon air show.

Church members
opposing merger

St. Joseph, Sacred Heart and St. Margaret Mary parishes in Granite City merged and became Holy Family Catholic Church in June, and the same controversy caused here is being experienced by Catholics in Cahokia.

In Cahokia, Holy Family and St. Catherine LaBoure Catholic parishioners voted not to merge their churches.

The tally of ballots opened June 26 showed 355 members of Holy Family voted against the merger and 178 cast their ballots for it. At St. Catherine LaBoure, 257 said "no" to the merger, while 76 voted in favor of it.

The information was released to members of both parishes this week through the churches' Sunday bulletins.

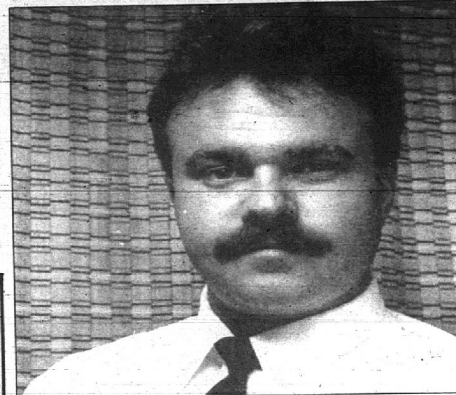

The Rev. Bernard Goedde, St. Catherine LaBoure pastor, said vote results will be sent to Bishop James P. Keleher of Belleville.

"To the best of my knowledge we should continue to be separate parishes," Goedde said.

The proposed merger had been a topic of discussion among church members for more than a month. About 300 people attended a two-hour meeting May 27 about the possible merger of Cahokia's two parishes.

At that time, a 12-member steering committee studying the possible merger outlined four options regarding the proposal.

Ballots were sent to all members of both parishes. The ballots were returned to church officials by mail.

Promotions, pay raises for police win Pontoon Beach board's OK

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — Promotion of three police officers and a pay raise for most police department personnel were authorized by the Village Board at its meeting June 23.

Promoted to lieutenant were Detective Sgt. Mike Crouch and Sgt. Thomas Cell.

Patrolman Dan McKinney was promoted to sergeant. The promotions were recommended by the board's Police Committee.

A 7.5 percent increase in pay, retroactive to the start of the fiscal year May 1, was granted to all police officers except Police Chief Chet Ballew. Assistant Police Chief Harold J. Denham and patrolmen still on probationary status.

Salary adjustments for the department's two top administrators will be considered at a later date, it was decided.

Promotion to executive secretary/dispatcher also was announced for Andrea Andrews, whose salary was set at $5.50 per hour, a $1.20 hourly increase.

A dispatcher with the department since 1985, Andrews will continue dispatching on a part-time basis, but also was assigned secretarial duties for Mayor Glen Wilson and Ballew.

The hourly pay of other dispatchers was raised to $5 per hour from $4.30.

An ordinance to raise the number of officers holding the rank of lieutenant from two to three also was approved.

Weekly gross pay rate for the two new lieutenants was set at $11.99.

FEET FIRST

COMPUTERS UNDERFOOT

By Dr. Claude Hiles

Podiatry has made its way into the computer age. The "computerized gait analysis system" utilizes over four hundred sensors to measure the pressure exerted by walking feet. This gives an exceedingly accurate analysis of walking/running biomechanics, making diagnosis and orthotic prescriptions easier to make. Another device traces the movement of various body joints while a patient walks. The created screen image brings gait patterns and muscle activity into sharper focus, and is a step closer to healthier feet. Walking has fast become an alternative exercise program to jogging and running. Be sure you wear footwear that is designed specifically for walking and keep your feet in "top" condition with regular foot exams. Contact my office for preventive podiatric care and treatment of sports injuries. X-ray facilities are located in the office. Hours by appointment at 1930 State St., telephone 877-6025. ## Cars in DUIs could be taken

SPRINGFIELD — Police could seize and impound the vehicles of drunken drivers for up to six hours if a bill that passed the House on a 116-9 vote receives the governor's signature.

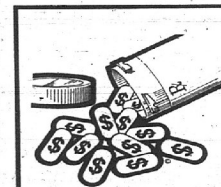

The legislation is intended to prevent people arrested for drunken driving from posting bail and driving home intoxicated.

This legislation could cause additional problems for police, said Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich. Most police departments do not have adequate storage facilities to hold the impounded cars, Churchich said.

"The idea is certainly good," Churchich said. Many drunken drivers are not sober enough to drive even after six hours, he added.

Originally, the bill's sponsor, Rep. John McNamara, D-Oak Lawn, proposed holding drunk drivers in custody for six hours. The bill leaves it to the discretion of the arresting officer whether to impound the car. But drunken drivers must have blood alcohol levels of .15 to be affected by this bill. The legal level of intoxication is .10.

Matthew 21:13... "It is written,
My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."

Our churches, regardless of denomination, and God's house are one and the same. Jesus said that God's house shall be called the house of prayer. Prayer means we are communicating with God. We may ask God for our lives, or we may just lift up our voices in praise and thanksgiving. This all adds up to prayer.

Prayer should distinguish our churches as God's house as much as our preaching and as much as our singing. After all, it is written in His Word that it should be so. We are not here for much speaking nor for vain repetitions, but according to the measure of faith we have when we pray.

Let it be said of your church, this is the house of prayer. Today.

Illinois, Germany to exchange personnel

The Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources and the environmental ministries of three West German regions have reached an agreement on a three-year exchange of personnel to enable experts to learn firsthand how the other nation is dealing with issues involving energy and the environment.

The Germans are conducting research and addressing environmental problems in many of the same areas we are working. Each nation will benefit from the exchange of research results and implementation experience," said Don Eichison, director of the state energy department.

Crab Orchard fish might contain PCBs

The Illinois Department of Public Health has issued an advisory concerning consumption of Crab Orchard Lake fish contaminated with PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls).

Waters of Wolf Creek Road channel catfish, 15 inches or longer, are classified as the most contaminated and should not be eaten by anyone. East of Wolf Creek Road, crappie and channel catfish are listed as the most contaminated, and bluegill and largemouth bass should not be eaten by those who are pregnant or might become pregnant, by nursing mothers or young children.

In other lake areas, bullheads, white crappie, carp, bluegill and channel catfish less than 15 inches have the least contamination, but should not be prepared and cooked in ways to reduce contaminants. All fat and skin should be removed from the belly, lateral line and dorsal area of the fish, and the fish should be baked, broiled or barbecued so the fatty oil can drip away and be discarded.

Free children's program at museum

Hot dogs and ice cream cones did they come from the 1994 World's Fair in St. Louis?

These and other foods popular after the turn of the century will be featured in "Picnic on the Pike," a free program for children ages 6 to 13 at the History Museum on July 14.

Suzanne Corbett, culinary historian, will prepare a variety of treats at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in the Jefferson Memorial Building in Forest Park, St. Louis.

Food concessions at the 1994 World's Fair were located along the pike, the mile-long amusement area. Hot dogs, ice cream cones and iced tea were all made popular at the Fair, perhaps due to the St. Louis summer heat.

Corbett will discuss how the World's Fair influenced 20th century eating habits, and how attitudes toward fast food have changed since the turn of the century. Samples of some 1900 style goodies will be offered to the children.

The program continues "Meet Me in St. Louis," a series planned to introduce children to lifestyles at the turn of the century. On July 19, Wilson Bell will help children visualize "The Ville," a black neighborhood rich in St. Louis cultural history. Programs July 21 and 28 will feature fashions, stories and dances popular in 1904.

The series is sponsored by Famous-Barr, and organized by the museum's education staff. There is no admission charge.

Those who wish more information should call Education Programs, 361-9265.

American Steel working on foundry

tions estimate demand to be 40,000 to 50,000 cars per year by the mid-1990s. In 1987, he said, 13,000 to 14,000 cars were made. In the peak year of 1979, 95,000 cars were produced.

When the foundry closed, Donovan said, there were six companies making the frames and bolsters. Now, he said, there are, including American Steel, three. Donovan said reopening the plant would have great economic impact on the community but, off-hand, he didn't have figures. He said more than half the former employees lived in the Quad City area.

"The average wage is $10 per hour. Multiply that times 1,750 employees times 40 hours per week. I guess it's $25 million to $30 million total salary."

When the foundry closed it was in the process of a $14 million upgrade that was never completed, Donovan said. Completion of that upgrade is part of the preparation.

"The plant has been in mothball condition since '82 with a skeleton crew on board. Much of the equipment has been operated on a monthly basis. Most of it is in a high degree of readiness," Donovan said. "Some, like the electrical system, has been completely discharged since 1982. This will all have to be readied for operation."

With Donovan at the press conference were Mayor Von Dee Cruse and Chamber Executive Vice President R C Bush. Donovan thanked both for their cooperation and continued efforts to help reopen the plant. Donovan is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

amount of call for a non-graduate lab technician."

A Tri-Cities Area United Way food, agency, Project Help provides supplemental food to 50 families of unemployed American Steel workers, said Janet Quanton, United Way executive director.

"It's coming back is a wonderful sign of the further resurgence of the Tri-Cities area," she said, adding that at a Project Help meeting Wednesday morning, "There was a general air of excitement that this is a real positive development for the community."

Michael Nemeth, 38, Granite City, a former crane operator for American Steel, said he was able to find a job and has been working at Prairie Farms' Granite City plant for more than three years, but that it's been harder for older employees to find work.

"It's kind of disheartening to drive by and see that big, empty parking lot," Nemeth said.

Echols predicted a satisfactory agreement would be reached, noting that state law provides for the city to regulate fencing.

Warfield to work with city engineers finished. Got things going back in the right direction. The problem is a lack of communication.

"I want this to help," Warfield help the Engineering Department. I hope they take it that way," Sixth Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker, a constant critic of Hadley, said the memo is something that should have been done when Hadley was hired.

"It's good, but it may be used to shove some of the mistakes of the Engineering Department off on the superintendent of streets. I don't know the purpose of it all of a sudden," she said.

Tuesday, a special, mostly closed meeting of the Street and Alley Committee was held to address some of the problems. It ran over and caused the council meeting to start late.

The meeting was attended by all aldermen except 3rd Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey, who was ill. No one informed Warfield it was being held, however, and he entered late.

During the council meeting, the aldermen approved a resolution to resurface all the streets on lists submitted by the aldermen a year ago at a cost not to exceed $50,000 per ward. This follows the council practice to allocate $50,000 in Motor Fuel Tax money to each ward for street improvements.

The projects must be approved by the Illinois Department of Transportation before MFT money can be spent. The Engineering Department is on record as believing state approval will not be granted.

Sprinkling putty dries faster than joint compound, so it's easier to use, especially for small and tight repairs. Whichever you choose, be sure it's still moist; crumbly putty or compound doesn't work as well.

Decorative molding is increasingly popular to add architectural interest to a room, especially as a cornice just below the ceiling. Classic styles are available in wood, pressed metal, or high-density polymer that doesn't warp.

If you must store gasoline for your mower, don't bring it inside the house. Keep the container out of direct sunlight and in a cool place. Heat encourages vaporization.

Repeal pit bull ordinance

Pit bulls can maim, even kill a man, and for that reason the Granite City Council is making it difficult for residents to own pit bulls. Although the reason sounds good, it's not.

Pit bull owners know their dogs have long, sharp teeth and vise-like jaws. When those dogs grab something or someone in anger they're almost impossible to shake loose. Some owners take advantage of their dogs' attributes by training them to fight and the dogs are pitted against others in violent, bloody death matches while their owners watch, cheer and bet.

Fighting pit bulls become vicious because owners will it, not because it's natural for the breed. Pit bulls are like other dogs — treated with kindness, they return it. Pit bulls are intelligent, friendly dogs when allowed to be themselves.

The City Council's ordinance unfairly burdens all pit bull owners. Allowing it to stand is like banning alcohol sales because some people drive drunk, or saying people of certain colors or religions can't live here because the majority may fear them, or banning all apartments because a few are kept by slumlords — all are forms of prejudice society can't accept.

If a pit bull owner does not follow existing city laws governing all dogs, he should be punished according to those laws. Pit bulls and their owners should not be selectively punished.

Granite City should play fair and repeal its pit-bull ordinance.

Madigan, McPike in charge

It will take awhile to fully evaluate the spring 1988 legislative session, part of the impact will not be known until the veto and amendatory veto process has been completed.

But already it is clear that two Democratic leaders added to their already considerable power. They are Chicago's Mike Madigan, speaker of the House of Representatives, and Alton's Jim McPike, House majority leader.

With McPike's help, Madigan called the tune on proposals to increase the Illinois state income tax on individuals and corporations. Gov. Jim Thompson had trouble mustering support for a tax increase but eventually won over the Senate president and the House and Senate minority leaders. This might seem to be enough support to enact the plan, but Madigan declined to go along with it and it didn't come to a vote.

With Madigan's backing and the governor's support, McPike played a key role in the last-half-of-the-ninth-inning rescue of a stadium plan designed to keep the Chicago White Sox baseball team from moving to St. Petersburg, Fla. As obvious arm-twisting proceeded in front of him, it was evident that the best that could be hoped for was majority approval, requiring action before midnight June 30; after that, two-thirds support would have been needed. Some said the clock stood at 12:03 but McPike, who chose to preside, ruled that from his vantage point it was still 11:59.

With the two friends consolidating their power, where will it lead them? The Democratic field already is crowded, with both Attorney General Neil Hartigan and State Comptroller Roland Burris marshaling their forces to seek the office of governor. But Madigan may be gearing for one of the major statewide offices, and McPike would be a natural to move up to the position of speaker.

The governor is emphasizing many people's view that education, human services and other state programs need more money. McPike is saying that the governor mainly wanted to add $1,000 jobs to his domain. And Madigan will be able to take most of the credit for "holding the line" on taxes — traditionally a popular political platform for almost any campaign that is to be launched.

Reform votes earn applause

What could be one of the most popular actions by Illinois lawmakers as they ended their June session was the vote sending to the governor a new state-backed health insurance plan for chronically ill and disabled persons.

The Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan became law in 1986 but was not implemented on schedule last year because of a lack of funds. It has now been revised and is slated to go into effect Oct. 1.

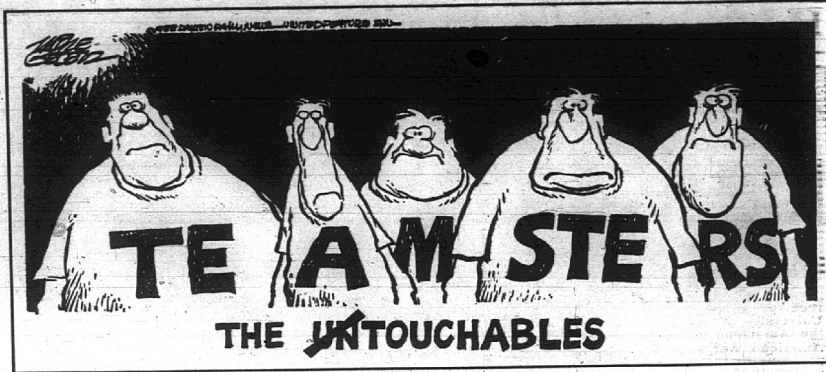

During the second of their two "overtime" days Saturday, legislators also adopted limited reforms of the Chicago public school system; simplified the Illinois sales tax system while adding out-of-state purchases to the program; allocated funds for sewage treatment improvements; and provided more state aid for rural school districts.

Earlier actions increased trash disposal fees, mandated future trash recycling, and required drivers to have vehicle liability insurance. The Assembly appropriated $5 million to construct a new art and design building on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where separate legislation will permit a 5 percent pay increase for faculty and staff members.

Electronic eavesdropping to help catch drug dealers also was approved, as was condemnation power for the St. Louis Regional Airport in Madison County, assuring that a runway can be lengthened to accommodate a new tenant, American Electronics Laboratories.

We predict representatives and senators will point with pride to many of these accomplishments.

Pit bull owner wants law repealed

To the editor:

Attention: not only to owners of American pit bull terriers, Staffordshire terriers, bull terriers or mixed breeds of those dogs, but (all) dog owners in general (should be aware that) I am preparing and circulating a petition to repeal the City Council's recent law to discriminate against pit bull dog owners. Not because these owners are guilty of violating any state, county, or city laws or present ordinances but just (because they own) one or more of this type of dogs.

This new decision was apparently passed by an imprudent group of politicians who are obviously misinformed or not willing to deal with real violators of this pit bull crisis.

The times which the city intends to issue to pit bull owners are designed to place such a financial burden on the owners of these animals that there is no real choice but to either sell, give away, or destroy their pet, or the owners can comply with the outrageous, unreasonable list of demands which no other dog owners are subjected to which is illegal and outright discriminating. This means your right to equal treatment under the law is being stripped away out of fear and ignorance.

Being a pit bull owner myself, I am aware of the need to maintain shots, health records, registration and a safe, properly secured environment for these dogs. I think the same should apply to owners of any breed of dogs including Doberman pinschers, German shepherds, rottweilers, great danes, chows, etc., etc. These breed dogs are just as capable of harmful attack or even fatality to a child or adult as the pit bull, and more apt to do so.

Even if I was financially capable to carry out these ordinance demands, I will refuse on the grounds of discrimination and prejudice. The principal of my personal rights are just as important to maintain as the rights of bearing arms for my family's protection, freedom of expression and speech, religion and owning an American pit bull terrier as my pet and investment.

If this present City Council maintains this decision unchallenged, it will lead to even further unreasonable infringements of other private, personal rights just as in this case to manipulate taxpayers to generate more revenue for city government at the expense of a single out few.

I don't condone pit bull owners who exploit these dogs for the so-called sport of dog fighting or attacking human beings. These owners and animals are the problems and they should be dealt with in the legal and proper manner individually. These people are the ones creating this vicious and cold-blooded killer stereotype for this breed of dog.

Let's not allow fear and ignorance to be the deciding factor in our city government's law and ordinance making process. If it's going to be that way, let's change it with our rights to vote for a more rational, intelligent administration that respects the taxpayer citizens of this city that gave these positions to them, including Mayor Von Dee Cruse who admitted that his own fear was a factor in this decision.

This appeal is to any private citizen, organization, or attorney at law, who would be interested in assisting pit bull owners, within the city limit of Granite City, in defending their rights against the city to repeal an unorthodox decision against the pit bulls and their owners. Please contact Daniel G. Churovich at 1633 Olive, Granite City, Ill. My number is 618-451-2011.

State best route for Bi-State buses

To the editor:

In a Press-Record article it was noted that if Bi-State receives enough response, it may again allow its McKinley Bridge buses to travel State Street. I regularly commute on this line and request that this be done.

I understand that the sole person responsible for the change in route effected on June 6 lives on State Street and complained that buses caused his home to shake and caused pollution.

I admire the gentleman's ability to effect change and respect the fact that by strongly voicing his dissatisfaction he was able to accomplish his goal of rerouting Bi-State buses from State Street to Madison Avenue.

However, in my opinion an unsafe condition — for commuters, route residents or Bi-State employees — would be the sole criteria used in changing an existing route.

One elderly resident stressed to me that this, she knew several contemporaries who initially moved into that area because of easy bus accessibility and were now forced to walk an additional two blocks, causing hardship to them.

Because Bi-State is a public company, it should strive to serve the majority of our community and not bend to the whim of a few.

Letter writers' names desired

Some people wonder why we make it hard for unsigned letters to appear in the newspaper.

Sure, we take them, but only under certain conditions. We figure letters, especially those that praise or are critical of others, should be signed so that the public knows from where the letters are coming.

We think that's fair and doubt anyone would argue the point.

When a man's mother writes to endorse him for public office, it's almost funny that she doesn't want to sign her name, but that kind of thing happens. And when writers criticize local government, a few don't like they're sending their letters to us from a frozen gulag and that they'll get a midnight knock at the cell door if their names appear in connection with what they've written.

Well, nuts and nuts — which ever you prefer. America is still spelt with a "c" not a "k" and we won't give credence to the paranoid in our society by allowing vindictive letter writers to hide behind unsubstantiated fears. If you don't like something, a person you elected is doing, then say so and stand behind it, like those who've opposed the pit bull ordinance, the governor's tax call, and the home inspection ordinance. And if it's your son who's running for president, be proud to say so rather than worrying that your family tie diminishes the letter's value.

With all that said, yes, we do take unsigned letters, but only under protest and when the reason for not signing the letter is clear.

If a person writes to say some Sultan of Local Government made a crazy decision resulting in a loss of taxpayer's money, and the letter writer works for that Sultan, sure, we'll withhold the writer's name if asked because in the real world whistle blowers can get their whistles, and jobs, taken away.

We enjoy receiving and reading your letters and know others do. We encourage you to participate in this democracy of ours and to practice your Constitutionally protected right to comment on community affairs by using the Press-Record/Journal, the medium through which this community talks to itself.

So, if you've got something to say, drop us a line and sign it.

When buying a home, whether it's a new construction or a resale, find out what energy-saving features it has and write them down, specifying the benefits of each.

One way to start is to check with your local utility representative and, if it's a new home, the builder.

Reviewing some basic information about energy-efficient features can help you ask the right questions and understand the answers you get.

Providence reports rapid service growth last year

By Mike Noonan

"Jinny Lepping of Providence Inc. (Providence Management and Marketing Services) shook her head and smiled when asked to describe the last year, dating back to July 1987, when she was named vice president of Providence."

"The year has gone by so fast — it seems as though we just started the Work Center yesterday," said Lepping. "It has been in operation now for about a year, and has been successful. We have treated well over 100 injured workers."

Providence, a for-profit sister service of non-profit St. Elizabeth Medical Center, offers occupational health services and education to the Metro East area as well as the St. Louis metropolitan area.

In addition to the Work Hardening Program, Providence is comprised of the Industrial Medicine Clinic, Employee Assistance Program, Occupational Health Service Management and Cybex Back Evaluation.

Under Lepping's direction, Providence has become a leader in the occupational health field, experiencing "tremendous growth" in the Granite City area as well as the entire St. Louis area.

Lepping said the Industrial Medicine Clinic started, and she began with Karen Dannenberg, now coordinator of the clinic, was the nucleus of the Occupational Health Service.

"Our primary goal back in 1981, when the Industrial Medicine Clinic started, was to provide accessible occupational health services to local business and industry, and our initial focus was the immediate Granite City area," Lepping said.

"We have really expanded since then, not only our market share, but also the services we offer. Along with having people come to us for service, we now go to them."

Lepping said this outreach service became so successful it was split from Industrial Medicine and became its own program, Occupational Health Services Management.

"When the Industrial Medicine Clinic got going, we formed an advisory board composed of business and industry leaders. It was discovered that not only did they want to send their injured people to us, but they wanted us to send physicians and nurses on site," said Lepping in explaining the origin of the Occupational Health Services Management program.

"The real benefit of this is that if the company is pleased with our service, we can introduce other services associated with the medical center that they might not be aware we offer — such as the Wellness Center or the Employee Assistance Program."

The latest addition to Providence is the Work Hardening Program, which has been in operation since September 1987. Front and center for Work Hardening is the Work Center, a

"Since we have re-created the work environment ... clients don't think of themselves as being sick or disabled — they instead are looking at ... improving."

Jinny Lepping

2,500-square-foot occupational rehab area on the first floor of the Wellness and Rehab Center, the renovated McKinley School building, featuring state-of-the-art rehabilitative equipment.

The Work Center is designed in the model of a warehouse where clients can participate in actual work practices.

There are gravel and sand pits for shoveling, a two-tiered construction frame for carpentry and similar work, a "pipe tree" for plumbing and construction work, and a BTE Work Simulator — a computerized machine that provides printed evaluation of a client's progress.

"The Work Center bridges the gap between acute care where you are actually returning somebody to the real world in terms of work environment," Lepping said.

"It gives the client the opportunity to work in a simulated, controlled environment allowing him or her to build tolerance, and stamina, while allowing our therapists to objectively assess if the client is ready to return to work."

Of those who have completed the program, 85 percent returned to their previous employment, while the remaining 15 percent went on to alternative jobs.

Lepping said the physical separation of the Work Center from the medical center is important in a client's rehabilitation process.

"Since we have re-created the work environment, separate from a hospital, clients don't think of themselves as being sick or disabled — they instead are looking at the potential of improving. This in turn builds their self-esteem and self-confidence from both a psychological and physical standpoint."

The Employee Assistance Program is another Providence program that has experienced growth. The program, headed by Wes Tobin, is a confidential counseling service offered to SEMC associates and a number of companies in the Metro East area.

"I think it is important that all SEMC associates know this benefit is available to them," said Lepping. "Depending on the magnitude of the problem, the client will be confidentially handled either by Wes, or referred to an outside service."

Providence now has the latest in back rehabilitation equipment, the Cybex Back System, a three-piece, computerized back testing rehabilitation and screening system.

"In the last year, with the addition of the Work Hardening Program and the new Cybex Back System, combined with the Wellness Center and all the other services available at the medical center, we feel there is not another facility in this area that offers the breadth of occupational rehab services that we offer, including the St. Louis area," Lepping said.

"With the relatively untapped market place, we should be able to continue growing. The future looks bright."

About real estate

By Don Campbell

Bigger down payment makes big difference

Dear Mr. Campbell:

My son and his wife are looking at houses and were told that there would not be much difference in his payments if he puts 10 percent down or 20 percent down. This does not sound right to me.

D.C.

Answer: "Difference." I guess, is pretty much in the eye of the beholder.

Let's take a hypothetical house priced at $80,000 that will carry a 30-year, 9-percent mortgage. If you make a 10 percent down payment, $8,000 you will be financing a $72,000 mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest will be $579.33. By making a 20 percent down payment, $16,000, you will be financing a $64,000 mortgage and your monthly payments for principal and interest be $511.05 — a difference of $68.28 a month, which may be, or may not be as negligible as he was told.

However, by doubling his down payment, he has trimmed a hair over 11 percent off his monthly payment and over the 30-year life of the mortgage, this amounts to an out-of-pocket saving of about $23,176, plus another $15,138 in interest charges that he will not be paying. And, in this light, maybe an extra $8,000 on the down payment makes a whole lot of sense.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

Our primary home is paid off. We purchased a condo on the lake and know that property interest can be deducted. However, we also purchased a boat with bed, bathroom, kitchen, etc., that is necessary to live on the boat. A friend told me that the interest paid on the boat also is deductible, providing we live on the boat at least 14 days a year. Is this the case?

N.G.

Answer: It is an intriguing idea, and I can see the logic your friend followed in arriving at this conclusion. But it doesn't quite work that way. Your friend is apparently taking the position that, since the mortgage interest deductibility is permissible for two of your "qualified residences" (as the Internal Revenue Service puts it), and since your primary home has no mortgage interest to be deducted, this two-day boat then shifts over to the third residence, which is, in your case, your boat. That idea doesn't fly with the IRS, however.

"The interest deduction applies to the principal residence and one other — the 'second home' provision — which is at the taxpayer's choice. You have the choice of deciding whether the condo on the lake, or the boat, qualifies as your second home, but not both."

Here is one consideration you might want to keep in mind: There is currently before Congress another bill of tinkering with the deductibility of mortgage interest. This could remove deductibility from boats and a few other off-beat types of homes.

It is a nice feeling to have the old homestead paid off, of course, but sometimes practicality can't be ignored.

Residential Affordable Payment special program explained

By Neil F. Hartigan
Illinois attorney general

Q. Could you please explain the Illinois Residential Affordable Payment Plan?

A. Yes, the Illinois Residential Affordable Payment Plan is a special program approved at the direction of the Illinois General Assembly that is designed to assist certain residential customers with payment of their winter energy bills. The program is scheduled to be available until Jan. 1, 1989. It allows qualifying residential customers of regulated electric and natural gas utilities to maintain energy service by paying 12 percent of their monthly household income toward that service used during the winter months of December 1 through April 30. During the remaining months, a participant must pay the required percentage of household income or the billing for the actual amount of energy used, whichever is higher. Your billing for energy services will show the amount owed each month and the date payment is due.

If you qualify for the Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program and/or are a customer of a regulated electric and natural gas utility company, you're eligible to apply for the Illinois Residential Affordable Payment Plan program. Eligibility is determined by household income. You may sign up at your local IHEAP agency. You can determine the local IHEAP agency by calling 1-800-252-8443.

Q. My husband recently passed away at age 70. Not long afterwards, I received an official looking letter with information that I was due money from his estate. This is a bit confusing since I had no knowledge of any other money. Could this be a scam?

A. It could be. Some companies specialize in contacting family members following the death of a relative. Typically, the company will write to a surviving family member with information that he or she is due money from the deceased's estate.

The letter won't tell you from what particular source the money is due and it's not entirely clear how the companies obtain their information.

The company will offer to recover the money for a percentage of the total amount obtained.

You may then be required to appoint the company as power of attorney for the purpose of investigating and collecting the funds legally due to the consumer.

If you get such a letter, keep in mind that you may be scheduled to receive the funds in question automatically through the estate probate process.

Veterans' benefits and Social Security benefits may be distributed simply upon request, with proof of death, by the named beneficiary or heir. Contact the Veterans Administration and Social Security if you believe you're due such benefits.

Other sources of unclaimed, abandoned, or forgotten money may include the deceased's life insurance policy, bank accounts, pensions or retirement benefits, credit unions, real estate holdings, stocks and bonds.

Remember, the family attorney may be able to do most of this investigative work as part of his or her services through probate of an estate.

Don't pay for services you can get free of charge. If you receive a letter from a finder's company, have questions about your local Attorney General's Office.

Q. My teenage son wants to find a summer job. How old does a person have to be to work?

A. For ordinary kinds of employment, the minimum age is 16. This state statute applies to places such as restaurants, stores, offices and factories. However, under a federal statute in effect prevents persons under 18 from working in kinds of employment which the Secretary of Labor has decided are dangerous or unhealthy for them, which applies to many kinds of factory work.

If the person is between 14 and 16 and wants to work in a non-dangerous job, he or she may be able to do so by getting an employment certificate from the city or county superintendent of schools.

There are some exceptions to the work restrictions mentioned above. A person 10 or above may do agricultural work outside school hours or during school vacations. Persons 13 or older may work as actors, models, golf caddies. And persons 14 or 15 years old may be allowed to work in federally funded work training programs supervised by the State Board of Education.

heated individually, according to the occupants' needs.

Another highly efficient system is the electric heat pump. Operating on the same principle as a refrigerator, heat pumps transfer heat from the air in the home during winter and reverse the process in summer.

About 19 percent of a home's total energy consumption goes to heating water. Energy-efficient water heaters are well insulated and near usage areas. Even greater savings are realized with "heat-pump" water heaters or solar water-heating systems.

Energy-saving features' value important home-shopping consideration

The ability of a material to slow down or resist the transfer of heat is measured as its R-value. Insulation is installed in floors, ceilings and walls. Fiberglass (blown or poured, in batting or blanket form), rock wool, cellulose and plastic foam are the materials most often used.

The higher their R-value, the more resistance they have to heat transfer, making the home more energy-efficient.

Normally, you can't see insulation, but you can do your homework by talking to the builder to find out if the home has good insulation.

Find out if the attic has adequate insulation. Since heat rises, a well-insulated attic could be a big money saver during the winter months.

Take a good look at the doors, windows and other openings to see whether they are sealed, caulked or weather-stripped. Some weather-tight homes have polyethylene vapor retarder on the heated sides of walls, ceilings and floors.

Such features protect the home from uncomfortable drafts and dampness, making the heating/cooling system more efficient in any season.

Check the material of the doors — particularly at entrances to the house. Heat can escape when they are closed, not only around the edges but also through the door itself.

The best doors for insulation are constructed of two strong metal sheets on the outside bonded around a core of urethane foam. Some doors are equipped with gaskets like a refrigerator door. When they are closed, the gasket seals against outside air.

Glass, which conducts heat rapidly, is responsible for a great deal of heat transfer. Some homes have double or triple-paneled windows with wood frames or "thermal breaks" in the frames to prevent the heat loss that occurs with aluminum frames.

Low-E windows are double-paneled windows with a special coating that reflect warmth back into the home. Or, conversely, low-E windows will reflect heat away from the home, reducing air conditioning costs.

If a home has a central heating/cooling system, the ducts that are sealed and wrapped with insulation will greatly contribute to its efficiency.

Zonal heating is a great energy saver. Each room is equipped with its own wall or baseboard heater so that rooms may be

Property taxes hot topic for hot season

Let's talk taxes today. No, not the sales tax simplification plan that was enacted shortly before Illinois legislators adjourned during the Fourth of July weekend.

Let's discuss property taxes. In general, most local rates are up slightly this year.

QUAD CITY AREA residents begin thinking about their real estate taxes when notified that their assessment is changing. Usually going up. Mine increased this year by way of a multiplier applied to all valuations in Nameoki Township.

We're not supposed to mind a township multiplier, because by the time Madison County finishes adjusting the 24 townships, it has assured a multiplier in the absence of a multiplier — at the countywide level, where the base amounts to $1,476,924,965, an increase of $60,478,918.

This is good compared to some counties that find their assessed valuation doubled by the state government because they didn't assess high enough. But a township multiplier can have the effect of raising your taxes.

NOT NECESSARILY, officials say. A bigger assessment base merely helps achieve a lower tax rate when a particular tax levy is applied mathematically. The lower rate then produces sufficient tax dollars because it has a broader base from which to finance local governments.

This is true, except that a lot of governments set their levies higher than they are likely to collect, to assure that despite assessment changes they can utilize the highest legal rate limit.

ANOTHER FACTOR is that a lot of rates apply to big geographic areas.

Whatever rate has been determined for the Madison County government, for example, it is going to have more impact on me if my township happened to get a multiplier, than would be the case if my township had received a negative multiplier, lowering my assessment.

Similar examples are the Metro East Sanitary District, which includes parts of two counties, and Granite City School District 8, which includes all or part of several townships.

ALL OF THE ABOVE statements are accurate, but they illustrate why newspapers usually don't get into long explanations of the property tax process. There is no way to say it clearly.

It reminds me of a recent cable television program that attempted to explain how to tape movies with a video cassette recorder. It got so confusing that the man doing the teaching finally suggested that you take your blank cassette next door and ask your neighbor to do the taping.

At any rate, and that's a pun, the annual taxing cycle is in progress, with bills for the 1987 tax year about to be collected in the long, hot summer of 1988.

Using the "2-by-4 swatted across the mule's nose" approach, taxing authorities got my attention by asking for the first half of my taxes by July 15 and the second installment by Sept. 16.

IF ALL ELSE FAILS, as the saying goes, read the instructions.

A lot of information on your taxes is provided by the bill itself. For those who live in my neighborhood, the combined tax rate is $7.39 on each $100 of assessment. Or to be precise, $7.392.

As has been the pattern, the public schools utilize more than half of the real estate taxes. The new rate for School District 9 is $4.042, up 25 cents.

OTHER PORTIONS of the $7.392 total are 95.1 cents for the Special Service Area sanitary sewer system, 80.1 cents for the county government, 39.3 cents for Nameoki Township general services, another 37.1 cents for the township's road and bridge maintenance. Plus, 33.6 cents for the Metro East Sanitary District, 29.2 cents for the Long Lake fire district (I've never used it but I'm glad it exists), and 22.6 cents for Belleville Area College District 522. (See ROUNDUP, Page 3C)

Thank You, St. Louis.

The V.P. Fair Foundation is grateful to the entire St. Louis community for helping to make this the best V.P. Fair ever.

Thanks to you, St. Louis, we had a V.P. Fair of which we can all be proud. The patriotic, flag-waving enthusiasm of more than 3,000,000 Fairgoers, combined with the cooperation of the City and County government, the National Park Service and thousands of volunteers, created a fabulous Fourth of July celebration, not only for St. Louis, but for America. We would like to take this opportunity to recognize the companies, the organizations and the individuals who, through their civic support, helped to make the 1988 V.P. Fair a great success.

V.P. FAIR FRIENDS OF THE FAIR CHARITIES.

Friday night's July 1 Charity Night Preview Party at the Adam's Mark Hotel was not only well attended, it raised more than $85,000 for these participating St. Louis charities and non-profit organizations. Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital • Harris-Stowe State College • Independence Center • Kilo Foundation • KWMU • Theatre Project Company • Communicate Plus • The Urban League of Metropolitan St. Louis • The National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse • Women's Self-Help Center • International Institute • American Lung Association • Family Resource Center • Good Shepherd School For Children • Visiting Nurses Association • Providence Center • Childhaven • Jewish Federation of St. Louis.

V.P. FAIR CORPORATE SPONSORS.

Funding from civic-minded companies is vital to the operation of the V.P. Fair. This year, the V.P. Fair had major sponsorship support from more than forty companies and organizations. We are grateful for their financial support of America's Biggest Birthday Party.

A.G. Edwards • Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc. • Aragon Public Relations and Peppers Special Events • Blue Cross/Blue Shield • Boatmen's Bancshares • Brown Group • Center Bancorporation • CIGNA Healthplan • City of St. Louis • Coca-Cola Bottling Company • Dairy Queen Enterprises • Edison Brothers • Emerson Electric • Enterprise Leasing • Ernst & Whinney • Fannie May Candies • General Dynamics • Graybar Electric • Kodak • Krey Foods • Laclede Gas • Louis Maull Company • McDonnell Douglas • Maritz • Mercantile Bancorporation • Miller Brewing • Monsanto Company • Nissan Motor Company • Nestle • Pet, Inc. • Procter & Gamble • Regional Arts Commission • Roman Foods • Schnuck Markets, Inc. • St. Louis County • St. Louis Post Dispatch • St. Louis Convention & Visitors Commission • Southwestern Bell • Suburban Journals • TWA • Union Electric • Wetterau, Inc.

And to the additional hundreds of wonderful companies who are not mentioned here and who have contributed supplies, services, time and effort, our thanks to you, too.

V.P. FAIR SUPPORT FROM LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.

The V.P. Fair is a cooperative effort on the part of our City and County governments. Since 1981, St. Louis Mayor, Vincent C. Schoemehl, Jr. and St. Louis County Executive, Gene McNary, have supported and endorsed the activities of the V.P. Fair, and, through their efforts, have helped bring regional, national and international attention to our metropolitan St. Louis area.

V.P. FAIR MINORITY RELATIONS.

Bringing the entire St. Louis community together for the betterment of minority relations is important to the V.P. Fair and its policy of being free and open to everyone. Special recognition goes to James H. Buford, President and CEO, The Urban League of Metropolitan St. Louis, Steven C. Roberts, Alderman for the City of St. Louis and Dr. Donald M. Suggs, Publisher and owner of the St. Louis American Newspaper. As part of the V.P. Fair's Minority Relations Committee, these men are helping to make the V.P. Fair more meaningful to minorities throughout the greater St. Louis community.

THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE.

The V.P. Fair has made Jefferson National Expansion Memorial its site since the first Fair in 1981. Without this expansive, 90 acres of Riverfront and Arch-grounds, the Fair would not have grown into the largest single civic celebration in America. We owe special thanks to our own National Park Service organization, headed by Jerry Schober, Superintendent of Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, and his staff of park rangers. Recognizing the great importance of our national parks, this year's Fair paid tribute to PARKS, U.S.A. and America's 339 national parks.

V.P. FAIR VOLUNTEERS AND CONTRIBUTED SERVICES.

Without its vast network of volunteers, the V.P. Fair would not be a community-wide effort. It is the thousands of hard-working volunteers who contribute their time, energy and talent that gives the V.P. Fair its one-of-a-kind sparkle. And it's the volunteer effort that makes it all happen every Fourth of July weekend. There are so many individuals, businesses and organizations that contribute services and products to the V.P. Fair, we can't list all of them. Our list includes St. Louis City and County Police and Fire Departments, The American Red Cross, BfState Development Agency, U.S. Army Medical Corps, Air National Guard, U.S. Army, Missouri Highway Patrol, U.S. Coast Guard and many more.

V.P. FAIR'S ABC-TV SPECIAL FOR LITERACY.

St. Louis did it again. We were chosen as the main site for ABC-TV's two-hour network prime-time television special, "A Star-Spangled Celebration," which brought together national celebrities and entertainers in the interest of literacy in America. If Americans didn't realize what a great place St. Louis is, they should know now after seeing this two-hour July 3 special on the full ABC-TV network.

LOOKING AHEAD.

On behalf of the non-profit V.P. Fair Foundation, we sincerely hope that you and your family liked the 1988 V.P. Fair, and that all of you will return again next year. If you have any ideas or suggestions for improving the V.P. Fair, we'd like to hear from you. Please write to: V.P. FAIR FOUNDATION, One North Taylor, St. Louis, Missouri 63108.

Bush tours farm on Illinois visit

SPRINGFIELD — A campaign stop in Springfield June 18 brought Vice President George Bush from a convention hall packed with cheering supporters to a parched cornfield filled with withering crops.

But the crops weren't the only thing suffering from the blistering sun. Bush, Gov. James Thompson and their huge entourages were basted in Raymond Poe's cornfield north of Springfield.

Bush used the field of dying corn as a backdrop to address the drought problem.

The dignitaries arrived in the limousines followed by police cars, van loads of Secret Service agents and bus loads of reporters.

Bush's shiny black limo kicked up dirt as it rolled into the desolate field.

"We need rain," Bush said.

"These farmers don't want money from the government, they want rain."

"These farmers don't want money from the government, they want rain," he added.

Bush's fine leather loafers became covered with a thick layer of dirt as he walked across the cornfield.

The corn plants were scattered several feet apart, 6 inches high and turning yellow in the afternoon heat.

Bush, Thompson and U.S. Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng sat on bales of straw and mused over the dry spell with a group of Sangamon County farmers.

As the afternoon sun beat down, Thompson and Bush donned Farm Bureau hats and began talking about cattle prices.

Reporters hurriedly jotted down notes of Bush's chat, which was broadcast on a portable sound system.

Bush reiterated his message: "We just need rain."

Thompson tilted his head back and peered into the clear, cloudless sky.

The farmers asked Bush if there would be another grain embargo. Bush said there wouldn't.

Chicago reporters asked if the drought would affect food prices. Bush said it might, "unless we get some rain."

Raymond Poe leaned back on his bale and said, "When you become president you ought to come back and have another one of these talks."

Roundup Taxes hot topic for very hot season

I'm glad BAC exists, too, but I wish the present board members would stop begrudging every penny spent in Granite City. They seem to regard as outsiders all who don't live in Belleville. If that's the case, why do they still want my taxes?

TAX RATE TOTALS vary according to where you live.

There are dozens of possible rate combinations in the Venice-to-Mitchell area, and hundreds in Metro East.

A typical Granite City tax bill is computed on the basis of a $7,425 total that includes District 9, $1.138 for the city, Madison County, MESD, 29.8 cents for Granite City Township, 29.4 cents for the public library, 29.2 cents for the park district, and the BAC tax.

MADISONIANS pay taxes utilized by the county, the sanitary district and the college, along with $3,405 for Madison School District 12, $1.22 for the city government, 49.9 cents for Venice Township general purposes, 12.8 cents for the Madison library and 12.5 cents for township roads and bridges.

Many residents of Venice are in the Madison school district, but others are in Venice School District 3, whose rate is $4.149.

In addition to the county, MESD, BAC and Venice Township general purposes and roads, Venice rates include $2.104 for the Venice city government, 59.2 cents for the Venice Park District and 14.8 cents for the Venice library.

There is no tax for the Eagle

Park Acres Fire District this year, but the typical Venice rate total is $8.98, reflecting a relatively small assessment base.

PONTON BEACH, located mainly in Nameoki Township as well as in such districts as the county, MESD and Granite City schools, has a village tax rate of 14.7 cents for this summer's collection.

The typical Ponton Beach rate total is $7.41, including such areas as the Chateau Trace I and II tax including financing districts.

Mitchell area home owners are affected by such rates as 16.7 cents for Chouteau Township general expenses and 39.5 cents for the Chouteau Township road and bridge system.

Despite opening a second fire station, the Mitchell fire district has a lower rate, 36.5 cents, than last year.

Inclusion of the Mitchell area in the Hartford public library district was defeated by voters.

TAX HEROES are few in number, but trying hard to qualify for that image is Illinois House Speaker Mike Madigan, who lowered an income tax increase that had won the backing of the Senate president and the House and Senate minority leaders.

Jim Thompson, governor, doesn't admire Madigan at the moment. Thwarted two years in a row in trying to obtain a higher state income tax, Thompson concludes that "Madigan has been bad again" and is no friend of real estate owners.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes an owner of real estate will decide to sell his property contract for deed, which is also known as bond for deed. This means that the buyer will make payments to the seller over a period of time, and at the end of this specified period the buyer will obtain a deed to the property.

A contract for deed sale differs from a sale involving standard financing with a note and mortgage. With standard financing, the buyer obtains a deed to the property immediately subject to a mortgage which is usually with a lending institution. The buyer under a contract for deed sale will not obtain his deed to the property until all payments are made.

Under a bond for deed arrangement, both the seller and buyer have an interest in the property. If the buyer stops making payments, the seller will need a quit claim deed from the buyer in order to once again have total ownership of the property and thus be able to obtain clear title. If the buyer makes all the required payments under the contract for deed, he will need a warranty deed from the seller in order for him to obtain exclusive ownership of the property.

A problem sometimes arises if the buyer or seller dies or relocates during the bond for deed period. How does one party obtain either the quit claim or warranty deed under these circumstances? In one recent case, land was being sold bond for deed, and the buyer died in the middle of the contract period. None of the buyer's heirs wished to continue the payments and the seller took the property back. The seller later discovered that he could not obtain clear title to the property in his name without a quit claim deed from the buyer or his heirs or a court order taking away the buyer's interest in the property.

This problem could have been avoided if the seller and buyer had signed deeds in the beginning and placed the deeds in escrow. If the buyer made all his payments, he would receive a warranty deed from the escrow agent. If the buyer defaulted on his payments, the seller would get a quit claim deed from the escrow agent. Placing deeds with an independent escrow agent would avoid the problem of later trying to get a deed when one of the parties dies or relocates.

Baker makes dad proud with national honor

Parents never stop being proud of their kids. No matter how much the offspring accomplish, there's always excitement with each honor.

You might think Ed Baker would be rather ho-hum about it by now. His son Gene has received so many honors for his soccer coaching that one more would be like another glass of water in the Atlantic Ocean.

But that obviously isn't the case. Gene Baker was named the soccer coach of the year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association on Friday night. Ed Baker was on the phone Saturday morning to our office with the news.

"Thanks to copy editor George McGee — there was no one from the sports department in the office Saturday morning — we got the news in the Sunday paper. Ed called again on Tuesday to talk to someone in sports, just to make sure we got the word.

"His mother and I are very proud of him," said Ed, who makes it to as many of his son's games as he can.

"I called my dad from the hotel right after the dinner," said Gene Baker. "I wanted to share it with him. My son (Gene Jr.) was with me, and the next thing we had about 100 people greet us at the airport when we got back Saturday."

Gene has rolled up more than

Gene Baker
300 wins and eight state titles in his 15 years in Granite City.

including last year's 20-3-2 team that won it all. He won coach of the year honors in 1982 from the National High School Soccer Coaches Association, but this was even sweeter.

"I just felt proud to be in the finals," said Baker. "You can only be up for the award every five years and I had lost out to coaches from Connecticut in 1976 and 1983. With the thing being held in Connecticut (Cromwell) this year, it looked like a bad omen."

Baker was up against coaches from Connecticut, Virginia, South Carolina, Kansas, Colorado, Washington and California, all of whom won state titles last year and have won many in their careers. A panel of 157 chose the eight finalists. Eddie Dunn of St. Louis University High, winner of more than 500 games, has been a finalist in previous years.

"It's tough to be up only every five years," Baker said. "If you go in at the wrong time and don't win, it's a long wait. But I got a beautiful ring and we just had a great time."

A Bartlett Giannetti, president of the National League, spoke at the dinner along with basketball great Julius "Dr. J." Erving and Georgia Tech basketball coach Bobby Cremins.

Membership is 50,000 in the NSHCA. Baker was the only coach from Illinois to get top honors. Just another reason for dad to be proud.

NOTES: A reception will be held to honor Baker at Charlie's Restaurant on Aug. 4 from 6 to 10 p.m. Tickets will go on sale this Saturday at Sheridan's Drug Store, 34rd and State, Granite City. Tickets are $25 per person. For more information, call Sheridan's at 876-6626.

HIGHLAND — Gee, with a little more hitting, the Triplets could have won the Highland Fourth of July Tournament.

On the other hand, with a little less pitching, the Triplets could have finished dead last.

Such was the sorry state of the Granite City offense last weekend at the eight-team holiday tournament. A 125 team batting average left Post 113 with little margin for errors or on the pitching mound. A makeshift pitching staff more than held its own, however, as a feeble offense left Granite City with a sixth-place finish.

The Smithton 7ers topped the Triplets 6-4 in eight innings on Monday in the battle for fifth place. It was Granite City's second extra-inning game in as many days. A controversial call at second base helped Smithton to a three-run eighth.

Triplets 1 game behind in North

The Triplets climbed back to within a half game of the District 22 North Division lead with a 12-4 win at Fairview Heights on Wednesday.

Chad Lignoul had a bases-loaded double to key a nine-run sixth inning which broke the game open. Granite City broke out of its hitting slump as they banged out 13 hits. Chris Barling was 3 for 4 with two RBIs and Kurt Hodges was 2 for 4 with a pair of RBIs.

John Moad was 2 for 3 with an RBI while Darin Hendrickson, Craig Dippel and Joe Wallace each added a hit and an RBI. Mike Krausz went the distance to pick up his fourth win of the summer against only one defeat. He allowed eight hits, struck out seven and walked two.

The Triplets (12-4 in league play, 13-6 overall) scored three times in the first and nine in the sixth. They broke a 3-3 tie with their sixth-inning outburst.

Marissa topped Post 113 8-2 on Tuesday. The Triplets had only four hits in that game as Greg Rinehart fanned 10 in picking up the victory.

Dippel tripled home a run in the first and scored on Moad's RBI. But Granite City had only three hits after that from Moad, Wallace and Lignoul.

Moad (0-2) who hadn't pitched in 12 days, had trouble finding the plate and took the loss.

"He wasn't hit that hard," said coach Woody Moad. "They hit a home run off him in the first, but a lot of the hits after that were bloopers."

Wozniak, defense propel Optimists

By Dave Whaley

GRANITE CITY — Junior Legions baseball is fun, but it can be hazardous to the health of an innocent scorebook.

Errors, wild pitches and the like are usually enough to make the book look like it's been through a war zone. But Wednesday's game at Varsity Field between the Optimists and Cahokia was a pleasant exception.

The game was very well played and the Optimists scored four times in the sixth for a 4-1 win over Cahokia. The Optimists are now 7-6 in league play and 9-7 overall. Cahokia fell to 4-12.

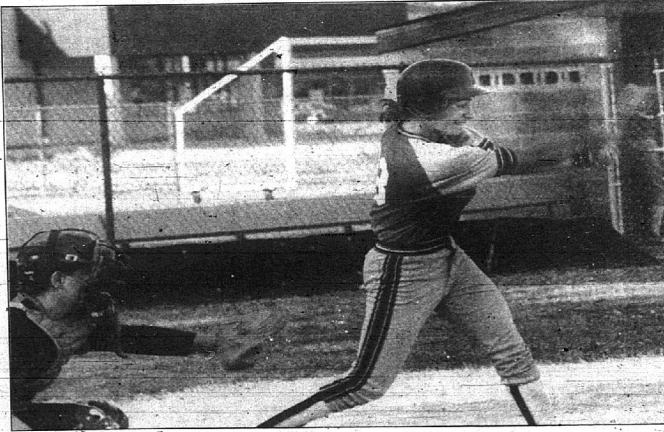

"We didn't make any errors, did we?" said Optimists manager Paul Kacera, who was almost as disbelieving as he was happy. "That's only two errors in two nights."

Indeed, someone must have put glue in the gloves over the holiday weekend. The Optimists had been an error-prone as Marv Throneberry, committing 37 errors in their first 14 games. But they were flawless behind an excellent pitching performance by Kevin Wozniak on Wednesday.

Wozniak (1-0) wasn't overpowering, but he threw strikes and none of the four hits he allowed was hit hard.

"Their pitcher threw strikes,

BRIAN HARSHANY had a sacrifice fly to deliver the Optimists' final run on Wednesday.

and that was the big thing," said Cahokia coach Bill Luther. "We just didn't hit the ball. We've been inconsistent with that. We hit one game and then not the next."

While Wozniak was mowing down the hitters with relative ease in the early innings — he retired 10 in a row after hitting leadoff hitter Steve Luther in the first — the Optimists kept missing chances.

Luther walked six and allowed two hits in the first three innings, but Granite City stranded seven runners. Luther had four strikeouts to help escape trouble.

"He got out of jams when he

Paddlers' power sinks Sunset Hills

Paddlers really put the pedal to the medal in their first home meet of the summer on Tuesday. Sunset Hills of Edwardsville was no match for the Granite City swimming and diving juggernaut as Paddlers rolled to an easy 441-188 victory in the swimming competition.

Things weren't much different off the diving board as Paddlers took first in five of eight divisions for a 44-27 win. Laura Patton, Shelly Hoffman, John Miller, Ron Selph and Brooke Bjorkman took firsts in diving.

The wins were the second without a loss for Paddlers. They are back in action on Tuesday when they host Wedgewood of St. Louis.

CORRECTION: A photo in last week's Press-Record was identified as one of Adam Jennings. The photo was actually that of Matt Yates, who set a record in the breaststroke in the meet at Summerhaven.

JOCELYN SIMPSON was on the 200 meter free relay team that won for Paddlers in the 9-10 girls division on Tuesday.

had to," Bill Luther said. "Our weakness has been pitching, but it was pretty good tonight." Cahokia finally broke through in the fifth. Chris Monroe led off with a walk and advanced to third on two wild pitches. With one out, Chad Butler's soft fly to center fell for a hit when Mike Young lost the ball in the early evening sky.

"Mike never saw the ball," said Kacera. "He's got a real good arm and had a chance to throw the guy out if he caught it."

Wozniak avoided further trouble when catcher Matt Schefke gunned down Julius Ferrell at third trying to advance on a short passed ball. "Matt makes a big difference for us," said Optimists coach Carl Benson. Schefke had been out with a broken left wrist, but returned on Tuesday. His bat made the difference in the sixth. Tom Senczyn led off with a single to right and Tony Sternberg was hit with a pitch. The runners moved up on a passed ball before Schefke singled just over the glove of shortstop Dai Mantz for a 2-1 lead. Jimmy Meppel replaced Luther, but Troy Adamitis greeted him with a double off the fence in left to score Schefke. Adamitis scored on Brian Harshany's sacrifice fly. Wozniak made things interesting in the seventh when he walked two after two were out to bring the tying run to the plate. But he fanned Ferrell to end it. "Kevin was in a hurry to fin-

Mid-season championships decided at Tri-City

By Joe Senter
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — John Prior took the U.M.P. late model stock car mid-season championship at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday. Mike Wallace took the lead at the green flag in the 25-lap event and led for 14 laps when the dry sump oil pump went out on his car and he had to pull into the pits. Tom Heinrich fourth and Jim Durbin fifth.

Durbin, a rookie, started the season after buying one of Wallace's late models and just last week bought an engine out of Wallace's car with which Wallace had won a feature. Wallace and Ray Emiling Jr. won the heat races.

Tom Seits became the mid-season champion in the sportsman's cars as he again outdrove brother John just two laps before the checkered flag. John had to settle for second with Randy Korte third, Rick Bayer fourth and Jake Seits fifth. John Seits and Bruce Unterbrink took the heat races.

Lon Thery Jr. is mid-season champion in the super modified division. John Hamner Jr. took the lead at the green flag of the 50-lap event and held on for four laps. Tim Smell of Madison was moving up quickly when he lost his mount in the fourth turn and had to pull into the pits. Hamner was second, Chip Thomas third, Chris Bargetzi fourth and Don Cruzen fifth. Thery and Taylor took the heat races.

John Stanton won the mid-season championship in the street stock cars, followed by Rick Carter, Rick Rhoades and Don McElroy Jr. Rick Malone and Steve Meyers Sr. took the heat races.

Mid-season championship winners at Godfrey Speedway on Friday were John Seits in the sportsman's cars, Berry Seiter in the street stock cars and Mike Chowning in the bomber cars.
